Dear Parents and Carers

I hope you and your family are keeping well and safe, and have managed to have some kind of an Easter break.

We continue to miss you very much; however, the Government advice is that we remain in this 'lock down' phase, which means we are still only open to a limited number of pupils and students. As such, we will be continuing to offer places to key worker families and a small number of families who need additional support. We have already spoken to these families and our rotas for next week are now in place.

We will be updating the learning resources on the website next week so do please look out for some new activities that you can undertake with your children. As a reminder, there is also plenty of helpful information on there including many links to other useful websites and contacts. We will also keep posting our well-being tips and our weekly newsletter.

Like many other schools, we have had a challenging time with the free school meals' vouchers but thankfully, we have managed to resolve this and that those of you who have provided us with an email address should have received these by now. For those that have not given us an email address the vouchers will come out in the post. If you would like to receive them by email (or you wish to update an email address) please contact us at adminoffice@heathfield.hants.sch.uk As a reminder, these vouchers are for income related free school meals, not the universal free school meals (free meals for infants).

Please can I urge you to ring into school or share with the staff member ringing you weekly if you are struggling or need support and/or advice. There will be a senior member of staff in each school every day and we would be very happy to talk to you.

The advice is still that being at home is the safest place to be and so far our school community is staying safe and well.

Please take care of yourselves and give our love to your wonderful children.

Very best wishes
